

From choice, a world of possibilities

Who we are?

The International Planned Parenthood Federation (IPPF) is a global service provider and a leading advocate of sexual and reproductive health and rights for all. We are a worldwide movement of national organisations working with and for communities and individuals in more than 170 countries.

IPPF works towards a world where women, men, and young people everywhere are free to make choices about their sexuality and well-being without discrimination — free to decide when to have children, free to pursue healthy sexual lives, and to live without the fear of having unwanted pregnancies and sexually transmitted infections, including HIV. A world where gender or sexuality are no longer a source of inequality or stigma.

East & South East and Oceania Region (ESEAOR) is one of IPPF's six regional offices which is based in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia and has a sub-regional office in Fiji.

ESEAOR is supporting its twenty-two (22) Member Associations and three (3) Collaborating partners in the area of strategic planning, programme development and operations, monitoring and evaluation, resource mobilisation, financial accountability, volunteer development, capacity building, knowledge management, quality of care and management information systems.

ESEAOR also facilitates partnership, network building and SRHR champions building. It also engages in national and regional advocacy work which includes engaging Parliamentarians.

Message from Regional Director

Dear Friends,

IPPF has always been a committed advocate of Sexual and Reproductive Health and Rights for all. It is our vision that every person is free to make informed choices about their sexuality and well-being without being discriminated. We aspire to have our society recognise that every human being has a right to decide on their own sexual and reproductive health choices, and for that we pride ourselves in being an organisation that has always put women and children at the heart of our mission.

For many years now, people [women especially] have been denied the right kind of sexual and reproductive health care.

But today we are seeing more and more people understanding the importance of better sexual and reproductive health care, and that's what we are here to provide.

IPPF's commitment to gender equality and respect of sexual rights is further affirmed in the 2016 – 2022 Strategic Framework as an absolute principle that guides its actions. IPPF ESEAOR will continuously aim to support this quest and will remain deeply committed to addressing the various challenges and barriers that will undoubtedly be faced in the journey towards this achievement.

This booklet summarises our achievements in 2016 and 2017 in terms of services enabled and provided, policies won, messages put across, number of young people educated, and volunteers mobilised, etc.

Best of wishes,

Nora Murat

OUR PRIORITIES UNTIL 2022

OUR VALUES

Champion Rights

Responding to the global call, ESEAOR advocates on various sexual and reproductive health and rights (SRHR) policy issues affecting the region. Priority policy-related issues identified include lack of access to sexual and reproductive health services, humanitarian emergencies, population dynamics (both youth and ageing population), migration and trafficking, gender equality, sexual and gender-based violence, comprehensive sexuality education, etc.

While most of the advocacy action happens at the national and sub-national level, ESEAOR Secretariat supports its Member-Associations through capacity building (in-country advocacy workshops, political and policy mapping, research) and conduct of regional events (Migration Conference, Ageing Workshop, Conference on Child Marriage, Early Union and Adolescent Pregnancy) to facilitate partnership and network building among different stakeholders, including government officials and parliamentarians.

ESEAOR also engages regional and international advocacy platforms such as the UN's Commission on Population and Development and Asia Pacific Population Conference, where it sends MA representatives and Youth Leaders to these events to join the Global IPPF family in pursuing progressive SRHR language in its outcome documents.

Empower Communities

ESEAOR prioritises access to quality comprehensive sexuality education. By doing so, it hopes to empower the youth who comprised approximately forty percent (40%) of the region's population. More so, it hopes to raise a responsible generation free from discrimination and stigma.

At the regional level, ESEAOR encourages and supports its Member Associations to operationalize CSE programmes in schools and communities. It trains MAs to provide CSE using the book, "It's All One Curriculum: Guidelines and Activities for a Unified Approach to Sexuality, Gender, HIV and Human Rights". The Secretariat also teaches its MAs in assessing the CSE being provided in each country by using the "Inside and Out: CSE Assessment Tool."

Dedicated and trained personnel at the Secretariat are assigned to provide technical assistance and guidance to MAs in setting up or managing their CSE programmes. Every year, ESEAOR conducts CSE training for its members.

ESEAOR's Member Associations implement a range of CSE activities at the national and sub-national level. Some of them forge partnership with secondary schools and universities so that they can organise regular educational sessions. In some cases, MAs train secondary school and university teachers and professors so that they can teach CSE directly.

Most of ESEAOR's MAs organise and train a group of youth who are called Peer Educators who act as motivators and educators (of CSE) of their fellow youth.

Serve People

ESEAOR and its Member Associations traditionally serve its people through its service delivery points (SDPs), which comprise of static clinics, community-based volunteers (through health education and FP distribution) and through mobile teams or outreach service teams. While these SDPs remain as the major service providers to date, ESEAOR has recently introduced other mechanisms to enable services.

In North Korea, Philippines and Lao PDR for example, these three MAs have vigorously forged partnerships with private and public clinics to form what is now called IPPF's associated clinics. Under this model, MAs provide FP training and supplies to these clinics so that they can regularly provide contraception services. MAs ensure quality assurance through regular visits and on-the-spot trainings.

In the recent years, ESEAOR's members have also responded to humanitarian emergencies by implementing the Minimum Initial Service Package of SRH in Humanitarian Emergencies. Under this special circumstance, MAs transformed its national machinery into humanitarian response mechanism to provide SRH services especially for pregnant and lactating women.

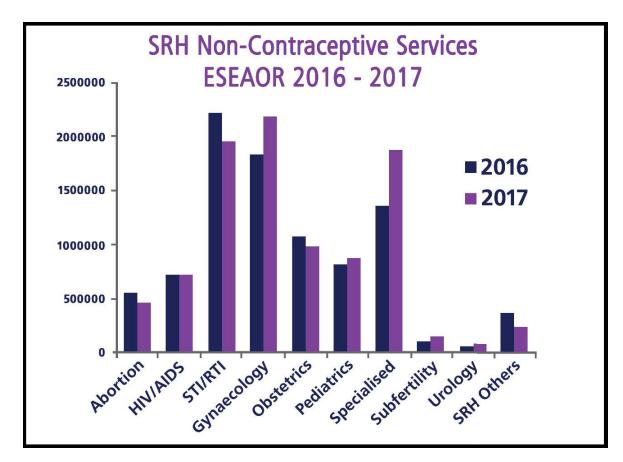

ESEAOR Secretariat supports its MAs through capacity building activities such as those related to the Integrated Package of Essential Services (IPES), Clinic Management Information System (CMIS), Commodity and Logistics Management. The Secretariat also facilitates MA-MA Learning through the Technical Assistance Network.

Unite and Perform

ESEAOR is very proud of its volunteers and the contributions they make to the Federation. In many of its Member Associations, one will easily be mesmerised at the commitment of its volunteers. Not only are volunteers providing time for policy-making, they also contribute in many aspects of the MAs life.

In Malaysia for example, volunteer doctors take turns in providing their valuable time and expertise in operating their clinics. In Philippines, Indonesia and Solomon Islands, volunteers join humanitarian response doing varied voluntary work. In Vietnam, Myanmar and China, volunteers are very much part of the MAs systems.

And there are millions of them! And they continue to grow.

ESEAOR runs a programme to support consolidation of the volunteer base and assist MAs in increasing the volunteers' knowledge on the IPPF issues and concerns.

The Secretariat also makes sure that all MAs are properly practicing the standards of MA Membership through the Accreditation System.
